- Definition of dignity and Reflection on how the emergency response or rehabilitation occurred in the Chernobyl disaster, was in favor or to the detriment of the populations dignity.

Dignity refers to the state of being worthy of respect and honor as an individual, after the accident that occurred in Chernobyl, the authorities took the necessary requirements to deal with the population in order to avoid affecting them that much because of the radiation. I believe that after the accident, the dignity of the society was prevailed but I also believe that they could have prevented the accident and have avoided the damage in the surroundings.
