

Heading: How to craft an interesting character analysis essay

Character analysis is the most common assignment given to students to analyze a character. Students usually read a novel or short story and then give a breakdown of a character from the story. The characters are mainly assigned to students or they are given a free choice to choose one on their own. You can also take help essay writer

I will give you some important tips on how to write a character analysis so stay tuned.

Choose a dynamic Character.

The first and foremost thing you need to do is choose a character that provides you with enough substance to analyze. It could be any character that stands out from the rest. It's not necessary that you have to write it on the protagonist, it could be any side character that catches your attention.

For example: in "to kill a mockingbird", the teachers often assign the character Tom Robinson, Boo Bradley or Robert Ewell to the students. These are not the main characters but are equally important.

In another case, Romeo is the main character that is assigned to students often. However, it could be the main character or any side character who does not have much presence but still, the story is incomplete without them.

When I was in school, I was not good at character analysis so I would always ask my friends to write my paper for me, because literature was new to me and I was not very interested in reading English literature. I used to think it was boring but now, I know it's not.

Anyways, it's not that difficult, you only need to know some basics before diving into the character analysis essay.

Make notes while reading.

This is an important step because you have to know what your character is like. How he behaves and what he likes. All the important information about your character has to be written down so that you don't come back to read again and again.

The easiest way is to highlight the particular piece of information and then mark it with numbers to know what piece of information is for what type of analysis. You can easily identify that information without reading the whole text again.

This is important guys, note it down in your notes. If you hate it, put an expert writer on it. Say Write my essay

For example, Tom Robinson from "to kill a mockingbird" is an insignificant character but why is he important and what did he do to be that important? How has the writer made him ordinary? You have to note all the points.

Also, note down how this character relates to the story or this character's relationship with other characters. Every piece of information matters such as:

- Elements of the plots
- Traits of your character
- Childhood facts

You have to analyze and also give your opinions to connect the whole essay together.

Choose the main idea

Now that you are done with reading the text and taking notes, it's time to choose a main idea or theme. The main idea will also be your thesis so you have to prove it with examples and situations in which character has made a significant impact.

For example:

Harper Lee in her essay has shown how racism and prejudice affects the town of Maycomb through her character Tom Robinson and Robert Ewell.

Now it's your job to prove that it happened in that story by providing situations and examples. You must cite quotes as examples so the readers can see how well you have understood the assignment.

It's alright if you still find it difficult to analyze a character because many struggle with it but it's something you will learn with time and practice. In the meantime, you can hire an essay writer as it will give you a better idea of writing a character analysis. You have plenty of time to learn and make mistakes, so do not worry if your analysis isn't as perfect as you would like it to be.

If you are struggling, these services can help you. You can ask them to write a thesis statement for you if you think this information isn't enough but I suggest that you must do it yourself the first time but if the deadline is around the corner then, of course, take their help. Although you can find plenty of samples online, read them all and then choose what to do with that information.

Ask questions

Asking questions will help you see beyond what is written in the story. Some important questions you need to ask before getting started are:

- The events that surround your character.
- The relationship of your character with other characters in the story.
- Is your character dynamic or static?
- Background of the character.
- Occupation of your character and how is that relevant to the story
- Lesson learned at the end of the story.
- Does the ending have a positive or negative impact on your character?
- Significance of your character in the entire story. Why it is important to the story.

It is simple guys, right? It is an interesting assignment but if you still think that you cannot do it or if your deadline is near, hire an essay writing service, they will help you with your character analysis essay. However, try writing it yourself first, you will be surprised at how much potential you have got. write my paper online site are available.

Outline:

The best way to understand how to start and end an essay is to write an outline. The outline will help you keep your ideas and thoughts organized and it will tie your whole essay together.

The outline should be like this:

- Introduction
- Body
- Conclusion

Give background information on your character and write a thesis at the end of the introduction, write the analysis in the body and conclude it with a strong conclusion.
