Funny enough that this just happened to me last night. A girl who wasn't on my program a couple months ago who had decided to passively aggressively mouth off and unfollow me on social media just refollowed and messaged me hey. You can't make this trash up gents. The audacity to think you can just walk off all emotional and then just casually crawl right back with no consequences. Again, she was the one being verbally defensive with me before she disappeared. I didn't say a word to her at the time when she left, and now it almost seems as if she's downplaying the whole event with her pitiful way of coming back. And make no mistake, even if she DID come back all apologetic, she'd have to make up for her misbehavior. But since this particular girl is making no actual effort, I'm just leaving her on read and ignoring her. It might seem ridiculous, but they DO come back gentlemen. It might take a few hours, days or even years, but the women that end up regretting their actions or see you leveling up almost always end up returning and knocking on your door. Gentlemen, I recommend ignoring her almost every time if a girl comes back. UNLESS she behaved well in the past and just had a minor setback and is ready to make up for it. just ignore her. No need to add complications into your life. And if you have an abundance mindset, chances are you've already moved on to better women in your life.

She's already proved that she's not a good addition, so make sure she stays out of the equation.
